

Fall Semester ACADEMIC PROGRAM

Mexican Studies offers language instruction at the Second, Third and Fourth year levels as well as courses in Mexican Art History, Mexican Literature, Mexican Civilization, and Latin American Literature. For details regarding academic credit on your home campus please consult the Campus Contact for programs in Latin America on your home campus or contact us at IE3 Global for further information.

SECOND YEAR SPANISH

An innovative program combining traditional classroom instruction with the resources of in-country immersion. Listening, speaking and communicative exercises based on Mexico-specific texts. Second year Spanish is comprised of two language courses, Grammar/Writing Skills and Communication Skills.

THIRD YEAR SPANISH

Two language courses, Composition (upper division) and Language in Context (upper division) develop intermediate to advanced language competence in the essential areas of composition and communication skills. Analysis of major Mexican cultural and historical influences and of cultural products-art, literature, film, music, etc. provides the focus for both classes. Conversation management, vocabulary building and listening comprehension. Grammar is linked to accuracy of written expression.

ADVANCED SPANISH

Two language courses, each focusing on an essential skill: Advanced Writing (upper division credit) provides the opportunity to write extensively and review grammar under the guidance of a teacher who makes suggestions for increasing accuracy and sophistication of written expression. Advanced Communication Skills (upper division credit) increases listening and speaking proficiency. Assignments involve interaction with Mexican people, as well as various cultural media such as radio, television, movies and possibly theater.

All content and literature courses listed below are upper division

MEXICAN CIVILIZATION (upper division)

An overview of Mexico from the time of Mesoamerican civilizations to the present. Attention is given to the history of relations between the U.S. and Mexico, as well as to significant social and economic determinants in Mexico's future. Open to students at all levels.

SURVEY of LATIN AMERICAN LITERATURE (upper division credit)

Two courses:

- 1) Literatura Prehispánica y Virreinal: Early (Pre-columbian) literature through the Baroque period;
- 2) Literatura Latinoamericana: Currents and genres in Spanish American literature from the mid-19th century to contemporary works through the 20th century.

ADVANCED GRAMMAR REVIEW (upper division credit)

Exploration of and practice with complex grammatical structures in Spanish. Scope includes morphological and syntactical structures.

SURVEY of MEXICAN (upper division credit)

Texts by modern Mexican writers: novel, short story, poetry and theater. Focus on the aesthetic qualities of the works and their relation to Mexican society. Techniques for improving students' reading abilities are included.

MEXICAN ART HISTORY (upper division credit)

A visual panorama of 30 centuries of Mexican civilization from pre Columbian times to present, providing an additional perspective on Mexican culture. This course includes hands-on art projects and excursions to local museums. Open to students at all levels.

IE 3 Global, which serves students attending all of Oregon's state universities as well as other universities, administers these programs. Further information about these and other IE 3 programs can be found at: <http://ie3global.org>

IE 3 staff contact for programs in Latin America:

Jennifer Jewett, Director, IE3 programs in Latin America: jennifer.jewett@ie3global.org or 541-737-0626