The program cost sheet is IE3 Global's estimate of the comprehensive costs of your study program. This information is similar to the Cost of Attendance figures provided by your home campus' financial aid office that reflect the cost of studying at your institution, both the amount you pay to the institution and expenses you pay yourself directly.

1. Costs Paid to IE3 Global:

Program Fee: IE3 Global charges a program fee that you pay instead of home campus tuition. The program fee is different for resident and non-resident students and covers the cost of all credits earned while on the study program.

Lodging & Meals: Room and board costs are included in the program costs for some programs. Where room and board costs aren't paid to IE3 Global, those expenses appear in "personal expenses" (see below).

Incidentals Fee: Costs that IE3 Global pays on your behalf for expenses such as orientation, excursions, international health insurance, field trips, and host institution tuition.

Total Program Costs Paid to IE3: Total cost of the study program billed to the participant. For students abroad more than one term, the cost will be divided evenly among the number of terms abroad.

Financial Aid and Scholarships may be applied to your IE3 study program.

2. Costs Paid to Home University:

A student's home campus will charge a "Study Abroad Fee". The amount varies by campus and may be charged each term a student is abroad. This will be billed to your student account at your home university. Please check with your home university regarding the study abroad fee.

3. Personal Expenses:

These are estimated costs for expenses that students may need to pay out of pocket, including airfare, local transportation, books, personal expenses (laundry, cell phone, etc.) and Passport/Visa fees.
